Continuation of Substance of Interview including description of the general nature of what was agreed to if an agreement was reached, or any other comments: The Examiner agreed to withdraw the Section 112 rejection and the Examiner acknowledge receipt of the priority documents in the present application. The Applicant argues that the prior arts cited do not teach "wherein the larger the total number of points accumulated by the person becomes, the smaller the point number to be displayed becomes stepwise". The Examiner answers that Applicant's specification page 19, lines 15-20 teach that "that the total number of points which can be displayed on a banner advertisement is determined in accordance with an investment amount of an advertisement sponsor". Also, Applicant's specification page 36, lines 5-15 teach that "if the user displays the same banner advertisement many times, then the displayed point (namely, gained point number) is gradually decreased. Then the decreased points of the displayed points with respect to this user is allocated to other user, so the points which are provided by the same advertisement sponsor may be widely applied to many users". Golhaber teaches displaying a cybercoin banner ad which indicates to users an amount of compensation to be given to said user for interacting with said ads (see col 11, lines 10-20); preventing consumer from receiving additional compensation by merely successively viewing the same ad (see col 17, lines 53-57). Gardenswartz teaches that users that continue with interact or comply with an ad are offered decreasingly lower awards (see col 18, lines 1-5) and Bachman teaches that incentive points cost money and sponsors need to put a cap in the amount of incentive points given to customers (see col 10, lines 1-10). Therefore, Goldhaber would be motivated to display decreasingly lower cybercoins awards to user that repeatedly interact (i.e. comply) with the same ad, as taught by Gardenswartz in view that awards cost money as taught by Bachman and therefore, said money needs to be better allocated to users that have not previously interacted with a particular ad in order to motivate new users to interact with said ad.
